Wednesday, October 19, 2016

Featuring

"Her Story: The women who helped shape Monroe County"

Presented by Amy Leiser

While women have always played an important role in Monroe County's history, little has been written about their impact on society. Through this presentation, Amy Leiser, executive director of the Monroe County Historical Association, will show the influence local women have had on home life, business, social causes, and politics. She received her undergraduate degrees from ESU and Bloomsburg University, and her master's degree from ESU in history. She is a contributor to several local publications, and is involved in a number of community organizations, including the Rotary, Daughters of the American Revolution and the Union Veterans of the Civil War.
